Logiware's Order Management System allows you to become more responsive and valuable to your client by integrating their sales and purchase orders into your logistics processes. This integration in turn increases productivity throughout the supply chain.

Import Capability	Logiware offers a standard file format that can import customer sales and purchase orders on a nightly or more frequent schedule.
EDI Ready	Logiware supports standard EDI formats (850 and 856) allowing your customer to send sales and purchase orders to you electronically. Orders upload automatically into Logiware, and you can send receipt acknowledgements, booking acknowledgements and advance shipment notifications back to your customer via EDI.
SO and PO documents	You can also create sales and purchase orders directly in the system and generate and email documents.
Create Shipments from Sales or Purchase Orders	Once an order is in Logiware, you can create bookings and Bills of lading directly from the sales or purchase order.
Link shipments to orders and orders to shipments	You can also link bookings and bills of lading to a sales or purchase order at any time.
Visibility	From within a sales or purchase order or a shipment file, you can see all of the orders that a shipment file is linked to and vice versa.
Searching and Reporting	You can easily search for shipments that contain or are linked to a sales or purchase order in the system. Sales and purchase orders can also be included in any shipment report as well.
Fulfillment Reports	Fulfillment reports can be run showing all of the sales or purchase orders for each customer, all of the shipments made against the order, the status of each shipment, and the remaining items and quantities not yet fulfilled.
Flexible item/product configuration	Item/products can be setup in the system with default quantity and price units of measure and unit of measure conversions. Products can contain sub-product assemblies and attribute configurations (such as available colors, material, length, etc.)
Integration with warehouse receipts	Warehouse receipts can receive items from a sales or purchase order.
